PARK BUILT WITH HELP OF GREENWOOD AND EMERALD CITY CLUBS ATTRACTS VISITORS OF ALL AGES

ROTARIANS OFTEN TOUCH LIVES WE NEVER HEAR ABOUT

by PDG Lorraine Angelino, Rotary Club of Emerald City

The Grace Street Park in Greenwood has visitors of all ages. The Park started out with a dog park and each time I visit something else has been added.

During the planning stage the Emerald City Rotary Club decided to participate and build a Natural Playground. Two District Grants were awarded to the project and the Greenwood Rotary Club pitched in to help with the matching dollars.

Together the two clubs planted bushes, trees, and monkey grass around the playground. We also came to the grand opening and had Josh the Otter there for the children.

On a recent Sunday night, I took my sister Susan to the park to show her the 32 bushes club members had planted in February. I also wanted to see if the eight trees we planted last fall were in bloom. I was taking pictures and was wearing my Rotarian at Work t-shirt when a couple sitting on a wood stump called to me.

They were Louis and Harriett Lathren. He said he was 90 years old and his wife younger.

They thanked me for the nice work Rotary had done with the playground. He also told me how when he was younger that he was a caddie and where the pond currently sits used to be the number 2 hole on a golf course. I only had a couple of minutes to talk with this couple, but they touched my heart to see they were just sitting there enjoying life and appreciating what others had done to the park.

You see as Rotarians you never know whose lives we touch. Many of us never even meet the people we help. Take time to visit the projects your club has done and find out how the project has changed lives. You may be surprised.

14 clubs awarded grants to host Membership Events

BY JOHN KIMBELL

7750 Grow Rotary Action Team

The District 7750 Membership Grant aimed at continuing strong growth of clubs in this Rotary year has been approved for 14 Rotary clubs in the District. The District will provide the funding to support clubs that execute a specific membership event with a complete set of intentional strategies and strong follow up while meeting the requirements of the program.

There will be at least 15-16 membership events hosted by clubs in April, May and June. Over 330 guests are expected. With strong follow up plans, these clubs will experience a strong year end, and good momentum going into the 2017-2018 Rotary Year. This is cause for celebration in the club and district as well as fuel for Membership Month in August 2017.

Many clubs are using the Who You Know club assembly exercise for the first time. It is an effective way to generate prospects from existing Rotarians. Each club should be able to generate easily 2-3 fairly qualified prospects for each member participating with a focus on who they want to have share great fellowship, service impact and fun.

Drum roll – there is a brand new tool just posted on the District 7750 Website – RECIPE FOR A SUCCESSFUL MEMBERSHIP EVENT. This is an excellent comprehensive resource to help guide membership events. It's based on what actually works and how needs to be more of a business meeting rather than a standard Rotary meeting. <http://www.rotary7750.org/Files/2016OnDemandTraining/SuccessfulMembershipEvent.pdf>

Future articles over the next few months will report on results. This will include useful information to what many clubs discovered as successful practices.

Your members need shoes!

We've had overwhelming response to the District Membership Event Grants offer. Each of the over 20 grant applications outlines the club's plan for inviting prospects to the event.

A few clubs proposed something like, "Get a list of qualified prospects from each member, and the Membership Committee will contact them." If that was your plan, you'll want to re-think. What that does is take the accountability for finding and inviting new members into your club off of the member and puts it on the membership committee. It takes the shoe off the member's foot and puts it on the membership committee's foot.

Worse yet, it means that a stranger is going to be calling the prospect with an invitation, rather than the member who knows them. That dramatically reduces the likelihood of a prospect either saying "yes" or actually showing up.

If your club's members have forgotten that it's a basic responsibility of a Rotarian to continue inviting new members into the club, you'll want to restore that culture. Make sure all invitations to a Rotary membership event are issued by the member who knows the prospects best. Keep that accountability shoe firmly on the foot of the member. The membership committee doesn't need all those shoes.

MEMBERSHIP NOTES

THINKING OUT OF THE BOX TO GROW ROTARY

BY DGE ED IRICK

Rotary Cub of Greenville Evening
District Membership Chair

I recently read an article by a Rotary Club president who wrote:

“Like most other clubs, our challenges were: diminishing membership; inability to attract younger people; lack of community service; and uninteresting meetings sinking motivation and enthusiasm.”

Does this sound familiar? How did this club address its problems?

“We also decided to lower the barriers for new members. We got rid of the clerk and lowered the annual dues and made our meetings more interesting. Now, every month, we have one formal lunch meeting, one community service event, one informal fellowship night, and one cultural or outside activity to engage new friends.

By cutting down operational expenses enough to give a $100 contribution to The Rotary Foundation for every member, we became the only 100% Foundation Giving Club within our district. During the first year of our transformation, we increased our membership from 38 to 125 including 65 young leaders.”

This club is in Seoul, Korea. It recognized its problems and applied fixes. The club changed its membership criteria, programs, meeting times, and increased its community service. It thought out of the box and achieved results. We can do the same. If we think boldly, act intentionally, and enjoy being Rotarians, our clubs will grow.

10 tips to grow your club

1 Develop a written membership development plan including a goal, membership development activities, a plan for attracting and retaining members, etc.

2 Club Leadership especially the Club President must recognize that growing club membership and retaining existing members is a priority.

3 You may need a new membership chair or a new way of recruiting membership. If the same person has been doing it for years and your club is not growing, what is the problem?

4 Club needs to be vibrant, successful and well run. Search Google for “Vibrant Rotary Club” to see examples of vibrant clubs.

5 Properly induct and engage new members.

6 All members need to be engaged in club activities.

7 All members need to be a part of the membership development process.

8 Your club is recognized in the community and has a good public image including a website, Facebook page and regularly submits press releases to the local media

9 Club leaders should attend Rotary trainings to learn the latest techniques and best practices for developing members.

10 Report and celebrate your successes.

CLUBS REAP BENEFITS

FROM FLEXIBILITY OPTIONS

It's been almost a year since the 2016 Council on Legislation vote gave Rotary clubs more freedom to decide when, where, and how they meet and the types of membership they offer. Clubs that have taken advantage of the new club flexibility options have reported increased membership; greater diversity in age, professions, and experience; and more engaged members.

Here are some of the ways clubs are staying relevant in their communities.

FLEXIBLE MEETINGS

The Rotary Club of Singapore East replaced two of its monthly meetings with less formal gatherings focusing on service projects and fellowship. These new meetings give Rotaractors and family members the chance to get involved, while keeping costs down for the club's younger members.

REDUCED DUES

Quentin Wodon, president of the Rotary Club of Capitol Hill, Washington, D.C., helped his club double its membership in six months by adopting a number of changes. One involved adding two new membership categories: one for young professionals, 35 and under, at half the regular dues, and one for spouses or partners, at one-third the cost. The club grew from 18 to 36 members and has since reduced its regular dues as well, says Wodon, author of the Rotarian Economist blog. See full article on page 9.

CORPORATE MEMBERSHIP

Corporate memberships give busy executives the chance to get involved in club projects and activities without committing to regular weekly meetings. The Rotary Club of Melbourne, Victoria, Australia, has 17 corporate members, from six businesses, who take turns attending the club's meetings. Robert Fisher, the club's corporate membership chair, says corporate members have given the club access to professional networks and helped expand its expertise. "We believe we can have a significantly greater impact with their involvement," says Fisher.

SHARED MEMBERSHIP

Peter Fitzgerald, president of the Rotary Club of Deerfield, Illinois, says he likes how shared membership helps expand the club's presence in the community. Up to five people can share a membership, taking turns attending meetings. The club has 12 shared members from four governmental organizations. Amy Falasz-Peterson, director of the Deerfield Public Library, shares a membership with three staff members. "It gives my staff the chance to meet people in the community that they might not meet otherwise," she says. "It's working really well for us."

Melinda and Bill Gates with billionaire investor Warren Buffett.

Gates to keynote RI Convention in Atlanta

Polio is one of the biggest and most important causes for Bill and Melinda Gates, as it is for Rotary International.

So it's kind of a big deal that Gates, the Microsoft founder and one of the world's most prominent philanthropists, will be a keynote speaker at the 2017 Rotary International Convention, June 10-14 in Atlanta.

"Rotary and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation have been working together on polio eradication for a long time, and our strong partnership will continue through the final years of the effort," said John Germ, Rotary International's president. "With the most effective resources in place, it's possible that we will soon see the last case of polio in history. At the convention, Bill will say more about how we can — and will — end polio."

The Gates Foundation and Rotary International have an ongoing match of 2:1 to support polio eradication efforts up to $35 million a year.

Gates' appearance is a big win for the convention and the 40,000 business and civic leaders who are expected to attend, said Atlanta's top tourism official.

"The addition of Microsoft founder Bill Gates as a keynote speaker reflects the importance and good work that Rotary does worldwide," said William Pate, president and CEO of the Atlanta Convention and Visitors Bureau.

The Gateses discussed the fight against polio in their most recent annual letter, in which the couple thank investor and philanthropist Warren Buffett for his landmark 2006 pledge to give the bulk of his fortune, $30 billion, to their foundation. The letter outlines the results so far — the return on Buffett's philanthropic investment.

"When you were growing up," Bill said to Buffett in the letter, "you saw things kids never see today: children with polio on crutches and leg braces, photos of kids in iron lungs. By the late 1970s, with the help of vaccines, the United States eliminated polio, but it still raged around the world. In 1988, when the global campaign was launched to end polio, there were 350,000 new cases each year.

"Last year, there were 37."

Melinda Gates said the 37 cases were confined to three countries — northern Nigeria and parts of Afghanistan and Pakistan.

"Honestly, Warren," she wrote, "we thought polio would be over by now. But immunizing children in conflict areas is hard — and dangerous. We're awed by the teams of vaccinators who take risks to reach each child. And we're inspired by the infinite persistence of Rotary International. They were leading this fight long before we joined it, and they've just kept moving forward. They know that going from 350,000 cases to 37 is amazing, but success is zero."

"If things stay stable enough in the conflict areas, humanity could see its last case of polio sometime this year," Bill Gates said.

The date and time of Gates' appearance at the RI convention has not yet been announced.

Golf great Jack Nicklaus, a polio survivor, also will be speaking at the convention.

The Convention includes a number of events with polio themes, including the June 8 Atlanta Braves game "Strike Out Polio," <http://www.rotaryconvention2017.org/festival-events/atlanta-braves> and the June 10 3K Walk/Run To End Polio Now," <http://www.rotaryconvention2017.org/festival-events/3K-walk-run>.

Beach Bash in York raises money for Imagination Library

The York Rotary Club had its annual Beach Bash fund raiser on Saturday night at THE GARDEN CAFE in York. The annual fund raiser supports the Dolly Parton Imagination Library (DPIL) which is sponsored through the York County Parenting Partnerships Program. York Rotary has been quite successful over the years with this fund raiser and in providing several thousand dollars to the DPIL literacy project. All had a great time dancing to the music of Summerdaze and enjoying great BBQ served by THE GARDEN CAFE.

York students of the month

Elvis lives in York

Rotarian Al Johnson brought his dental patient, Elvis impersonator Joe Borelli, to a recent meeting. Joe has been on the Today Show twice, appeared at the Norman Rockwell Museum, and has been doing this for 25 years. At the meeting, he sang "Caught in a Trap", "My Way", "Hurt", "Falling in Love with You", "Viva Las Vegas", and a few others. Joe is from Kingston, NY and recently moved to York. This was certainly a very different type of Rotary program that was 'outside the box' and enjoyed by all. Rotarian Jim Hodnett and his wife Pat are seen in the picture with Elvis singing "Viva Las Vegas".

Two Aiken clubs lead effort to place 12 AEDs around the city

A person doesn't know how much they may need an Automatic Electronic Defibrillator, often called an AED, until they don't have one.

Vance Reynolds, CEO of Aiken Regional Medical Centers, made that point at the Aiken Rotary Club weekly meeting, adding an AED occupies the top of the list of "must haves" at area schools and other civic locations in the event of a cardiac arrest.

The Aiken and Aiken Sunrise Rotary Clubs each contributed $1,500 toward a District-approved matching grant of $3,000 to buy AEDs, which cost about $1,000 each. The goal was to purchase 12 to be placed around the city. Aiken Regional Medical Centers donated $6,000 to cover the shortfall to make the placement of 12 AEDs throughout Aiken possible.

Aiken Rotary Club member John Lindsay, who coordinated the raising of money to purchase the 12 AEDs, said the seeds of the idea to purchase the defibrillators were sewn at last year's mid-year assembly in Greenwood, when incoming District Gov. Lance Young told the story of how an AED saved his life when he had a heart attack at age 39.

"When we experienced some additional costs in completing the project, Aiken Electric Cooperative stood up to be a project sponsor," Lindsay said.

Reynolds said AEDs are invaluable in field emergencies, where the odds of surviving a heart attack or coronary emergency are less than 5 percent without one. He introduced cardiologist Dr. Weems Pennington, who spoke of the value of having an AED on site at area businesses and other civic and educational locations. Plain and simple, Pennington said, "The AED saves lives."

"The big thing about an AED is they are very simple to use," he said. "The AED can automatically diagnose an abnormal heart rhythm and restore normal heart function with a shock."

During a cardiac arrest, there is no blood circulating through the body and no blood getting to the brain. "When an episode like this occurs, it only takes about three to five minutes for irreversible brain damage to occur," Pennington said. "Time is of the essence. In those three to five minutes where you do not employ an AED, the chances of survival decrease by 5 to 7 percent per minute."

AEDs can be used by anyone, Pennington said, and training on how to use them is included in most CPR classes.

Fountain Inn Rotarians receive PHF+4 pins

Two members of the Rotary Club of Fountain Inn—Harry George (yellow shirt) and Brian Roberts—received their Paul Harris +Four pins on Feb. 27 from DG Lance Young and AG Candy Surkin.

Union members presented Governor's Award of Excellence; club recognized for polio giving

Area 10 Assistant Governor Renee Stubbs attended Union's meeting to deliver awards to members and to the club. She awarded the Governor of Excellence award to Wayne Wallace, Lewis Jeter, Mike Cassels, and Bill Graham. The criteria of the Governor of Excellence pin is (1) induct a new member (2) organize a service project (3) give to the Foundation. (Pictured: Renee Stubbs, Wayne Wallace, Lewis Jeter, Mike Cassels, Bill Graham, Rotary President Torance Inman).

Renee also recognized the Union club their contributions to Rotary's Polio fund ($50 given per Rotarian in the club) and for the club's 100% member participation giving at least $100 to the Rotary Foundation. (Pictured Renee Stubbs & Torance Inman)

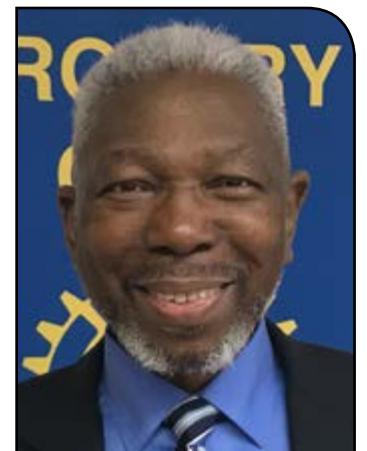

Kristy and Tim Garner presented President Torance Inman a plaque for Rotary's sponsorship of Dixie Youth Girls for the 2016 year. In return Torance presented them with a check for the 2017 Dixie Youth Girls sponsorship.

Rotarian William Jeter spoke to the club about the Lake Project proposal and the major impact it will have on the upstate of South Carolina.

Rotary
UNION

The Union County Chamber of Commerce hosted a surprise retirement celebration for Torance Inman at Union's new Main Street Junction. Torrance is president of the Union Rotary Club this year.

Rotarian Lewis Jeter, Union Business Consultant with the South Carolina Small Business Development Center, spoke to the Union club about the importance of business planning, marketing assistance, and other small business programs.

Golden Corner inducts Travis

Chad Lusk, left, recently spoke to the Golden Corner Rotary Club of Seneca about the NOW program. Lusk is the director of the Fred P. Hamilton Career Center and helped develop the Nurturing Oconee's Workforce program along with economic development director Richard Blackwell and the Oconee Alliance. Incoming club president Jon Adams, right, presented Lusk with a club banner.

Sandra Pruitt with the South Carolina Department of Social Services, recently updated the Golden Corner Rotary Club of Seneca, on the services available from DSS which has offices in the United Way Building on East North First Street in Seneca. Doug Wilson, left, with the Golden Corner Rotary Club and incoming club president Jon Adams helped welcome Sandra to the meeting.

Golden Corner pays for GED exams

The Golden Corner Rotary Club of Seneca presented a check for $3,000 to support Adult Education scholarships that pay the $150 GED exam fee. The Golden Corner Rotary Club supports the Rotary Scholarship Fund that has now paid for 14 GED exams in Oconee County. Presenting the check is Gene Williams, left, with the Golden Corner Rotary Club and director of the School District of Oconee County's Adult Education programs. Also pictured are Michael Thorsland, superintendent of Oconee County schools and Andy Inabinet, right, chairman of the Oconee County Schools Board of Trustees. # TELL YOUR ROTARY STORY BY WRITING ABOUT OTHERS

BY QUENTIN WODON, president

Rotary Club of Capitol Hill, Washington, D.C., Zone 33

Telling your club's story in social and traditional media is an important investment in your club's future and for Rotary's public image. But you need to do this strategically if you want to publish multiple stories and keep readers interested.

Once in a while, you may have a great story to tell about your club. However, blogs, newspapers, and magazines are unlikely to repeatedly publish stories about the activities of a single Rotary club.

This is where writing about other organizations comes into play. Instead of focusing on your club, you can publish stories about your partners in the community, especially nonprofits doing great service work, and mention how you work with them. This is the approach I have used for my club.

Over the past few months, I published a half-dozen articles in Hill Rag, the monthly magazine for our community, as well as two other articles for the city's main free newspaper. Each article features one of our nonprofit partners, focusing on their achievements while mentioning briefly how we work with them.

Similarly, I have written a half-dozen posts for The Hill Is Home, the main blog for our community, again featuring our partners' work and our contribution. Occasionally, I have also published related stories on Rotary blogs (Rotary Voices and Rotary Service Connections) and on World Bank blogs. This approach seems to be worthwhile to get our club better known and, more importantly, to give visibility to nonprofits serving those in need.

It builds goodwill. Our nonprofit partners are grateful when we write about them. They have told us how this has helped them.

The approach also seems beneficial for our club. After more than five years of declining membership, we doubled our membership in six months.

We adopted a number of major changes on how we meet and what we do, but writing for social and traditional media has helped. We are gaining in stature in the community, and we received in November our first grant from the Capitol Hill Community Foundation for an initiative through which we provide strategic pro bono advice to local nonprofits.

You can learn more about our strategy for publicizing Rotary on the Rotarian Economist, or consult one of the free e-books I am publishing with Smashwords.

Eight Rotarians complete RLI at Greenwood

BY BERT STRANGE
7750 RLI Chair

On March 11, 23 Rotarians gathered in the Self Conference Center at Piedmont Technical College in Greenwood for the District 7750 Spring 2017 Rotary Leadership Institute.

Seven facilitators from three districts guided the students through an exciting day of learning more about Rotary and enhancing their individual leadership skills. At the end of the day, the eight Part III participants (all from District 7750) received their highly coveted RLI Graduate pins.

We look forward to seeing lots of District 7750 Rotarians in our RLI sessions during the 2017-2018 year. Mark your calendars now for our District-sponsored events in Duncan on October 14, 2017 and in Anderson on March 10, 2018.

Elementary and middle school students performing in this year's Spring Sing. DGE Ed Irick's granddaughter, a fifth grader, is in this mix.

Pleasantburg holds its 37th Annual Spring Sing in Greenville

The Rotary Club of Pleasantburg, in conjunction with the Greenville County School system, hosted its 37th Annual Spring Sing performance at the Peace Center on March 14.

Every Elementary and Middle School in Greenville County is invited to have music students participate in a choral event produced by the Pleasantburg Club.

More than 450 students performed for family and friends in front of a packed house. The elementary school students perform first followed by middle school students. They were directed this year by visiting Clinician Victor Johnson from Fort Worth, Texas.

For the final number, the elementary students were in the upper balcony and join with the on stage middle schoolers for a beautiful music finale filling the concert hall.

For many of the students, this event provides a "once in a lifetime" experience which can shape their lives in many positive ways.

As in other years, the Pleasantburg Club also awarded a $1000 scholarship to a former Spring Sing performer as they continue their voice and music career at college. This year's award went to Blue Ridge High School student Micah Arms who performed at the intermission and will be attending Furman University this fall.

DG Lance Young and his wife Lenna, DGE Ed Irick and his wife Carol, and Area 3 assistant governor Beth Padgett were also in attendance.

7750 Global Grant funds generator for vocational school in Haiti

BY CHARLES WARNE
Rotary Club of Greenville

The Rotary clubs of Greenville and Greater Greer sponsored an application and matching funds for a Global Grant from District 7750 and the Rotary Foundation to purchase and install a generator at the Fritz Lafontant Vocational School in the Central Plateau of Haiti.

The generator replaces a 40 year old non-working unit that once supplied power to the school and support activities. The generator allows classes to extend hours of education for the agriculture students and the preparation of meals for students and farm workers previously provided from a shack and open fires.

All involved at Zanmi Agrikol (Partners in Agriculture, in Kreyol) are appreciative of the Rotary organization for this grant.

The new generator.

POLIO CONTRIBUCTIONS – only three months left to reach club goals

BY AMELIA NELSON
7750 Polio Chair

So how is District 7750 performing in Polio giving? As part of Zone 33, the minimum zone goal is $1.4 million. We are close, as $1.2 million has been contributed. I'm proud to report that District 7750 is leading the zone in total contributions so far with $145,801. But District 7770 is on our heels with $142,878. District 7770 consists of clubs in the lower part of the state. Let's not let them become No. 1!

And how is YOUR CLUB performing? $1,500 per club is the average goal or the minimum should be at least $50 per member. There are six clubs that have contributed less than $100. If you have not reached your goal, please work hard these last three months so our district can maintain the No. 1 position. Please let me know if I can be of assistance in any way. Remember our celebration of Rotary's 110th Birthday when RI President John Germ, then RI Trustee and Chair of the International PolioPlus Committee, was our guest speaker? Let's make Pres. Germ proud of District 7750!

APRIL CHALLENGE:

May 4, 2017, is the 30th anniversary of Women In Rotary. I challenge each woman in District 7750 to contribute $30 to PolioPlus during the month of April. For you men, because you were slow admitting women to Rotary, I challenge you to contribute $60 during the month of April.

UPDATE ON POLIO CASES

PAKISTAN: There has been one new wild poliovirus type 1 case reported. The total number of WPV1 cases for 2017 is two.

LAKE CHAD BASIN : The detection of wild poliovirus type 1 in Nigeria poses a risk to the neighbouring countries of the Lake Chad basin and hence an outbreak response plan is being implemented as part of the response to the Nigeria outbreak.

AFGHANISTAN: There have been two reported polio cases this year. The goal this year is to record the LAST polio case.

SUMMARY: Total global cases in 2017 equal 4 (all in endemic countries) compared to 7 in 2016; No cases reported for 2017 in non-endemic countries, which is the same as for same time period in 2016.
